

Just Say It, It's Not That Hard

Victoria Watson

I wish that my peers didn't watch an LGBTQIA+ movie and say
Just say it
It's not that hard
They don't see me squirming at the back of the class with my back to the wall
Just say it
It's not that hard
They sit there with their judgy eyes and I see them looking at me
Just say it
It's not that hard
I came out to them as bisexual and in my head I said
Just say it
It's not that hard
And yet my parents still think that I'm straight
Just say it
It's not that hard
I wish they knew what it was like to feel like your disappointing everyone
Just say it
It's not that hard
My silent tears escape my eyes without my permission
Just say it
It's not that hard
Drips slowly turning into rivers and I run
Just say it
It's not that hard
Their words echoing in my head
Just say it
It's not that hard
But I go to the bathroom
Clean up
Go back to class
Plaster on a fake smile
And I say
Yeah
It's so easy
